Real Cause of Baldness.

Coming in from East Liberty or ing dome that was almost destitute

The two friends exchanged facetious remarks about silvered locks, then indulged in some pleasantries about the "thinning of the thatch," with casual references to doorknobs and billiard balls, much to the amusement of the passengers, but to the evident discomfiture of the baldheaded man.

The talk finally developed into an argument on the cause of baldness, the pair turned to the pearly pated |-
